Subject: USE of PLT for Investigations

Perhaps this should be addressed sooner than later by our Legal Team.

As an example, The operation at RCGT Park on Sunday February 6th 2022 resulted in 3 separate investigations. They all that started with PLT. I would think everything is disclosable R v. Stinchcombe. If there is some 3rd party rule, we need to know because this changes everything.

We had to call officers back to enter IAs that night. As you can appreciate, it would be impossible to proceed with only arrest details.

My 2 cents on this, if PLT does this, it hasn't been available as evidence to date and probably wont be if we go down that avenue...

Good idea George and agree.

This should go through and come from Event Command.

Good Morning,

I've looked into this and this is more than an isolated incident with Coventry Canadian Tire. Canadian Tire website is pretty good at keeping track of stock for items. Bear Spray is "in store only" type of item to buy.

Several stores are nearly out of stock or out of stock, compared to stores further away from the “rally points” of the convoy group. My best recommendation would be to contact a regional manager for Canadian Tire to get a count on these 3 SKU related to bear spray and get a count of that were sold in the past week or so. Then there is SAIL, Cabella’s and MEC that do sell these items. I would also be curious in asking about knives, axes, etc.. All those items are outdoor, camping type of items.

Deputy Chief,

I was just speaking with the manager at the Canadian Tire on Coventry about mask type incidents in the last 2 days. He let me know that their sales of Bear Spray have been very high in the last 24hrs, alarmingly so.

I thought this might be of interest to you
